Kitab-I-Iqan (English Translation)

Kitab-I-Iqan

Synopsis

The Kitāb-i-Āqājīn, Or simply the Iqan, is a foundational text in the Baha'i Faith. This book describes in one part, the Baha'u'llah's realization of a single, personal God, and that He has revealed Himself through successive revelations through prophets in history. The second part of the book describes the mission of the Bab.

Customer Reviews

I formally became a Baha'i as a teenager in 1973. In my more than forty years as a member of the Baha'i Faith, I have read 'The Kitab-i-Iqan: The Book of Certitude' more than a dozen times. It has been the theological foundation and textual wellspring of my spiritual life. I've read several of the world's Holy Books from cover to cover: the Bible, the Bhagavad-Gita, the Dhammapada, the Gathas, the Tao Te Ching; I've read portions of the Qur'an (which I hope to read the whole of in the relatively near future). I've also read multiple times the whole of the Baha'i sacred texts that have been translated into English. But the one book that stands as the most important book in my life has remained the Kitab-i-Iqan. This is because it is the most spiritually penetrating and illuminating book that I have ever had the privilege to read. The Kitab-i-Iqan, like all truly sacred texts, is a product of Divine Revelation. Baha'u'llah, the Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith, revealed all 290 paragraphs of this work in two days; this is an astounding feat for anyone, but Baha'u'llah is reported to have done so without forethought, planning, or reflection; the text flowed out of Him by means of the spirit of revelation. He revealed the Kitab-i-Iqan in answer to questions posed by a Muslim man, and so it is replete with quotes from the Qur'an and Hadith; it also spends quite a number of pages explaining the meaning of Matthew 24:29-31.
